Full Review from a piano recital in UK

The concert given by Leonora de Laperha on October 2010 at Farnham United Reformed Church featured the music of Isaac Alb  niz, the Spanish composer who was born 150 years ago, in 1860. Spain has a musical heritage, and nowhere more than in the music of Albeniz. The programme began with the French Suite in the B minor by J.S. Bach (BWV 814), showing a wide variety of colour in the music, from the brilliance of the Courante to the tenderness of the Sarabande and the dancing

Minuet. The fiery gigue made a good transition to the music by Albeniz.

Ingrid chose four pieces from Albeniz's suite 'Iberia'. 'Evocaci  n' is a piece dreaming of Spain, as its title suggests, and was followed by the exciting, percussive 'El puerto', descriptive of a busy port. The rhythmical 'Albaicin' refers to the Moorish quarter of Granada, while 'El polo' is a dance from Andalucia. All these pieces are very free and bold - certainly very Spanish; they were well received by the audience. As an encore Leonora played the short Sonata in F sharp minor by another Spanish composer, Antonio Soler, a welcome extra to a highly enjoyable recital.
